

Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey and his bride, who was Miss Camilla Loyall Ashe Sewall, at the reception after their wedding in Grace Episcopal Church, Bath, Me.

Pacific and Atlantic.

The bride and her attendants—Mrs. Walter E. Edge in the wedding gown of white brocade and old point lace which was worn by her mother. The boy in the group is Walter E. Edge, Jr., son of Senator Edge by a former marriage.

Pacific and Atlantic.

Nursing the treasures of the Romanoffs—the crown jewel committee of the Soviet Government, quartered in a building the location of which is kept secret, carefully cleaning the gems of the former rulers. In the group at the table are, beginning second from left: Vladimir Soboleff, secretary of the committee; Trynitsky, director of the Hermitage Museum; Prof. A. Ferstman, leader of the Lapland expedition which discovered jewels in the hovels of the natives; M. Farberger, French jewel expert, and I. Bergashev, president of the committee.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, a guest of the women Democrats of Maryland, chatting with Gov. Ritchie during the celebration of the recent Democratic victory.

Underwood & Underwood.

A Hapsburg exile—Archduke Karl Ludwig, son of the ex-Empress Zita of Austria, at prayer in the Spanish castle where she and her family have been the guests of King Alfonso since the death of the Emperor Karl.

Underwood & Underwood.

Mrs. Rosalind Layte and her Russian wolfhound Sonia of Tolstoi, a prize winner in the dog show of the Hudson County Kennel Club.

Fotograms.

Mohammed VI., Sultan of Turkey, in flight from his country after the abolition of his office by the Angora Government, landing on the Island of Malta, in the Mediterranean, from the British battleship Malaya. On the left of the photo is the Sultan's ten-year-old son, Prince Ertogrul, who accompanied his deposed father on the hurried journey.

Pacific and Atlantic.